

You're invited

Physicians' Seminar:

A Differential Diagnosis for Breastfeeding-Associated Pain

Thursday, March 9, 2017

5:30 – 7:00 pm

Cessna Room, Wesley Medical Center, Wichita, KS

Registration is FREE and includes dinner

RSVP to bbandy@ksbreastfeeding.org by February 27

Alison Stuebe, MD, MSc, FACOG, FABM

Associate Professor

Division of Maternal Fetal Medicine

Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology

University of North Carolina (UNC) School of Medicine

Don't miss Dr. Alison Stuebe's dynamic program focusing on clinical management practices in the treatment of breastfeeding-associated pain. Participants will leave with an effective differential diagnoses tool for making clinical treatment decisions to treat breastfeeding pain.

Objectives –

Participants will:

- Understand the prevalence of breastfeeding-associated pain
- Review evidence regarding the role of infection in pain syndromes
- Appreciate the breadth of the differential diagnosis for breastfeeding-associated pain
- Be able to evaluate and manage breastfeeding associated pain

This activity is pending approval for 1.5 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™.

Education provided by Wesley Medical Center and La Leche League of Kansas, in partnership with the Kansas Academy of Family Physicians.